DECLARATION OF MARY J. CHAMPION
UNDER 37 CFR 1.132

I, Mary J. Champion, declare as follows:

1. That I am the sole inventor in the above-identified application, which claims the benefit of U.S. Provisional Patent Application Serial No. 60/563,237, filed April 16, 2004.

2. That after the filing of the above-noted provisional application, I conducted extensive research on the internet looking for prospective licensees for my invention as set forth in the above-noted provisional application. Among the companies I researched was Kobayashi Healthcare, Inc (hereinafter referred to as "Kobayashi").

3. During this period of time after April 16, 2004, I noted that Kobayashi did sell/advertise cooling patches for treatment of fevers, migraines, headaches, sprains, arthritis, toothaches, heat discomfort, overexertion and overheating. For example, Attachment A, attached hereto and made a part hereof, is a copy of portions of Kobayashi's website for their "BeKooool" cool gel sheets product, which website portions I printed out on May 18, 2004. Importantly, the Kobayashi website did not show, mention or otherwise even suggest that this cool gel sheets product were, or even could be, used to treat hot flashes associated with menopause.

4. In May, 2004, after the filing of the above-noted provisional application, I contacted Kobayashi to inquire about their possible interest in my invention. I generally discussed my invention with a Mr. Ohara, an employee of Kobayashi, who I understand was very familiar with Kobayashi's BeKooool cool gel sheets product. Mr. Ohara declined to sign a Non-disclosure agreement that I had proposed. Mr. Ohara did not inform me that Kobayashi was, at that time in May, 2004, marketing/selling, or even contemplating marketing/selling, any product for treating hot flashes associated with menopause.

5. In June, 2004, Kobayashi informed me that they were not interested in my invention.

6. Periodically during the remainder of 2004 and the first half of 2005, I checked Kobayashi's website and confirmed that no showing or other disclosure was made on this website that this "Be Kooool" product, or any other Kobayashi product, was, or even could be, used to treat hot flashes. During this time period, I did not see any advertising, packaging or any other material for any "BeKool for Adults" product referring to hot flashes.

7. Based on my own research on the internet and since neither Kobayashi nor anyone else identified to me any cooling product to treat hot flashes associate with menopause, no cooling product from Kobayashi for the treatment of such hot flashes was marketed/sold before or during 2004, and during the first half of 2005.

8. In July 2005, I first became aware of Kobayashi's new product, packaging and advertisement for "BeKool Hot Flash". Attachment B, a copy of the advertisement for "BeKool Hot Flash" I first became aware of on July 18, 2005, is attached hereto and is made part hereof. I promptly contacted Kobayashi to discuss this development. In response, Kobayashi provided me with a power point presentation of an unpublished, half completed Product Concept Test which bears a date in 2003. I have no way of verifying that this Product Concept Test was conducted at all, let alone in 2003, particularly since Kobayashi's product "BeKool Hot Flash" was not marketed/sold until July, 2005. Moreover, this Product Concept Test does not disclose my invention.

9. On December 3, 2007, an Office Action in the above-identified application was mailed by the Examiner, for the first time, citing the "BeKool Hot Flash" product against the claims of the above-identified application. Specifically, the "BeKool Hot Flash" product was described in a pamphlet, shown in Attachment C attached hereto and made a part hereof, which was provided by the Examiner in form PTO-892, which accompanied the December 3, 2007 Office Action. This pamphlet is undated. A part of this pamphlet is similar to the product, packaging and advertisement for "Be Kooool Hot Flash" (Attachment B) which is dated July, 2005. The only date on the pamphlet received from the Patent and Trademark Office is 11/29/07. Thus, the earliest date that I am aware of that any portion of the pamphlet was published was July, 2005, well after the filing date of the above-noted provisional application.

10. In view of the above, the "BeKooool Hot Flash" pamphlet being relied on by the Examiner to reject the claims in the above-identified application is not prior art against these claims, each of which is fully supported by the above-noted provisional application, filed April 16, 2004.

11. I further declare that all statements made herein of my own knowledge are true and that all statements made on information and belief are believed to be true; and further that these statements were made with the knowledge that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under §1001 of Title 18 of the United States Code, and that such willful false statements may jeopardize the validity of the applications or any patent issuing thereon.

Signed this 30 day of June, 2008.

Be Koool for Adults
Whenever you'd use a cold compress or towel, use Be Koool instead. There's no drip, no mess, and the soothing relief lasts for up to four hours. The soft gel sheet stays in place, so you can even wear it to keep your cool during jogging or other activities.

Be Koool for children
Specially sized Be Koool for Children means you'll never have to keep changing mossy towels that lose their cool even faster than they fall off a fussy child's forehead. Be Koool stays cool for six hours and stays put, so you and your child will both feel better. Perfect for those overheated days and nights of summer.
